

Aviation Dreaming

It is with the greatest respect that I use this aboriginal expression. Australia had an aviation dreamtime and has a dreamtime aviation heritage.

During the wars, our aviators were innovative, courageous and professional.

In the period between the world wars we were pioneers - the Pacific routes, the route to London, the air mail services, the RFDS. Our pioneering pilots, navigators, engineers and air traffic controllers, were second to none.

The future of aviation rests with the young men and women of Australia and our mission is to prepare them to the highest standards.
