

Deep and Meaningful

We make no apologies for the depth of knowledge contained in our pilot training manuals.

Theory is not learned purely for the sake of it. The theories of flight evolved from years of prior practical experience. We learn and apply the theories so that we are better equipped to deal with flight situations.

Theory is our way of reaching an understanding of what happens in the real world and is a vehicle for explaining to others what we have learnt.

Theory is not purely theoretical. It is also meaningful.
